INVENTORY MANAGEMENT

Organizations that have large inventory also require managing of inventory flow to ensure no area of the business is neglected. This system is used to automate and facilitate material management processes electronically and also helps in effective management and record keeping of the material; this will enhance the effectiveness and efficient management of different material. Users of different departments will access their authorized sections in the system and use forms to carry out their day to day tasks related to the management of the different data and view reports accordingly. Usually, organizations are not equipped to have fully automated tools or the appropriate infrastructure to effectively manage this function. In which case, they end up spending more resources on managing inventory, maintaining store stock levels or material planning at stores and reporting to various department heads. This situation becomes more troublesome when there are shifts working round the clock and results in too much time and effort spent to administer non-core functions of the business. LBS, through its Material Management experts can help maintain this issue and also help to cut costs drastically in this area. Our experts offer CAPS suite to resolve all such issues.
